BASEBALL REPORT.

Standing of the Clubs in the National and Western Leagues.

That was an unlucky defeat for Chicago at St. Louis yesterday and a plucky victory for the downtrodden Browns. McFarland, one of Browns' weakest batters, put the ball over the fence in the ninth and saved the game for his side. It put Chicago in fifth place, and it now is doubtful if Anson's men pass Boston again. Standing of the clubs:

A HOT GAME PLAYED ON "SNIPE HILL"

IRISH NINE AND A PICKED TEAM MEET.

The Contest Was One of the Best Ever Seen In This City, Although Several Times It Looked As If It Would End In a Row—The Score.

As the dramatic critic would say, there was one act at Snipe Hill that took place on the ball field Sunday afternoon, that was not down on the score card. It took place in the seventh inning. After Atkin and Tom Sullivan had been retired, Mike Sullivan hit out a fine single. Dixon, the next man up hit a fast grounder between short and third. Pat Holloran made a beautiful stop and a perfect throw to first, retiring the runner. But in passing first base, Dixon and Nolan got into an argument about something, and the first thing the crowd saw was Dixon's foot flying at Nolan. Nolan came back with the ball on Dixon's head, and his fist on his face. Then they both clinched, but the crowd rained up and separated them before any more blows were struck. The audience was surprised at Dixon, for they thought he was the last man in the world, that would do such a rash act.

It was one of the hardest fought ball games that was ever seen on a Janesville diamond, and at several stages of the game it had the appearance of breaking up in a row. The great trouble was with the umpire, Shultz. After making several bad decisions against the picked nine, the audience, as well as the players, were howling for his scalp, but when he should have considered himself in luck to get away from the angry crowd, he insisted on staying in the game.

No One Was Ambitious. After he gave a bad decision on Grogan at first, he quit in favor of Queeny. The players wanted some of the professionals to handle the indicator, but none of them cared to take their lives in their hands except Crab, but Mulcairns objected to him. Here was one player who seemed to have his own way on Snipe Hill all summer, but he found his match at last. If ever a man got a tongue lashing he got it from Holloran. As long as Holloran had been seen on the diamond it was the first time he was ever seen on the lines. But this time he did not try to "jolly" any of his base runners. He was after Mulcairns and my didn't he give it to him. Talk about George Decker and the Chicago bleachers. They ought to have heard the popular short stop and the crowd yesterday. To make it worse Pat sent a runner down to second. Atkin made a perfect throw, but the ball bounded out of Mulcairns' hands like a small boy bounding a rubber ball off the side of a barn and then the crowd went wild. Mulcairns threatened to punch Holloran but Pat "called him" and Mulcairns went and sat down.

Was a Fine Game. The Irish won the game in the fourth inning, when they had what they call "Cleveland Luck" with the stick. After Larson caught Aikins' fly, Tom Sullivan hit a terrific liner to left for wobbes. Then came a single by Sullivan, Steed, Mulcairns and Smith. Nolan sandwiched in an error that caused five runs to cross the rubber. Tom Sullivan was a stumbling block for the picked nine. He pitched a strong, steady game and scattered the visitors' nine hits through the nine innings. His fielding was as fine as was ever seen by John Clarkson in his palmy days. He was assisted in fine style by Aiken, who played a steady game. The picked nine lay the loss of the game to the catcher, but their principle trouble was in their base running. Several times they threw away chances to score by poor coaching. Larson pitched a fair game, barring the fourth inning when the Irish crowd held out their clubs and poked out a few Texas league hits. His perfect command of the ball was something wonderful for a "south paw pitcher," and his batting was hard and timely. Holloran and Blakely both filled their positions in fine style and Mike Sullivan made some good stops at short for the Irish. They intended to play another game next Sunday, but Fred Dixon and Morrissey promised to give a game with Evansville on Goose Island. The score:

STANDS LOST MONEY AT THE FAIR.

Many Booths Did Not Take In Enough to Pay Expenses.

The numerous stands on the fair grounds did but a miserable business during fair week, because of the bad weather. The refreshment booths failed to clear expenses, and in a number of instances, the association did not take privilege money from those who had run behind. In spite of this streak of hard luck a number of the dealers re-engaged space for next year however.

HE PREACHED ON POLITICS

Rev. V. E. Southworth's Sermon at All Souls Church Yesterday.

At All Souls yesterday Pastor Southworth delivered a sermon on politics pure and simple without the admixture of any partisanship. He pronounced himself a republican democrat and a democratic republican, and made it very clear before he was through what he meant by such a combination of terms.

The following are some sentences taken from here and there in the lecture:

"A democracy is a government of the people by themselves. It is 'demos'—the people, and 'cratos'—strong to rule—the people strong to rule. * * * Are the people of America strong to rule? Do they govern themselves? Why so many laws then? Why so many states prisons, jails, schools for incorrigibles, insane asylums, poor houses and reformatories? Why such armies of policemen and officers of justice, who with all their efforts scarcely keep these self-governing Americans within bounds? Why such costly administration of public affairs, such vast fortunes expended annually 'to run the government'?"

You can't have "domestic tranquility and general welfare," where every once in four years or oftener the male adult population turn upon one another with their biting, blistering ridicule and denunciation, call each other "rogues," "rascals," and "ready to ruin the country." This complete abandonment of the dignity of citizenship is not very conducive to what you call "general welfare." * * *

There were lots of good ideas and noble aspirations embodied in our constitutions. And they are there yet. We haven't worked them out into our actual life. * * *

If we had the right kind of men and women to make the thing go, American democracy would be an astounding success. You can't have a great republic without great republicans, or a pure democracy without upright democrats. * * *

The first essential element of true democracy is the general diffusion of intelligence among the people. There is no place in a democracy for wilful or hellish ignorance. The more ignorance, the more political incapacity and the less of a democracy you have. Any sort of brick and timbers thrown into any sort of a heap don't make a solid and permanent structure, so you can't make a great nation by joining any sort of people together in any sort of way. In a democracy—

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Dr. Hodge Preaches—B. F. Dunwiddie Conducts Bible Reading—Other Notes.

"Because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved," Thes. 2:10, was the text of Dr. Hodge's morning sermon at the Baptist church.

At the evening service B. F. Dunwiddie conducted a bible reading, on the Sunday school lesson. He said that a teacher should select the most important and practical truths in each lesson, and should have a definite plan in teaching. He then selected the three words, "wisdom," "words," and "ways," and called for a number of reference to be read regarding them. The service proved to be a very interesting one for all present.

The monthly missionary meeting of the Christian Endeavor society was led by Miss Davey, "The Religious of the East" being the topic.

THEY RAIDED DELAVAN SHOPS AND RESIDENCES.

Finally Took Butcher Utley's Equine and Drove to This City—Then Hitched the Beast In Wallace Tuffs' Shed and Left For Parts Unknown.

After raiding several shops and residences of the city of Delavan, bold thieves stole a horse and buggy and with their plunder drove to this city sometime during Saturday night or early Sunday morning, where a portion of the goods were recovered by the local police.

Early yesterday morning Wallace Tuff, who resides at 159 South River street, discovered a horse and buggy in a shed in the rear of his yard, and thinking all was not right he notified Officer Hogan.

Soon after Tuff made the discovery John Utley, a Delavan butcher drove into the city and asked Al Smith where he would find Officer Hogan. Utley told the officer that robbers had broken into two carpenter shops, stealing a number of tools, beside visiting a private residence where they secured a $75 shotgun. Then they stole Mr. Utley's rig and left. Officer Hogan soon had Mr. Utley at the Tuff residence where Utley identified the rig as his own. All that was found in the buggy was an auger, which was identified as one of the tools stolen from the carpenter shop.

Tuff says that the barking of dogs about 4 o'clock in the morning awoke him and it is supposed then the thieves drove into his yard at that time, and abandoned the stolen equine.

NEWSBOYS AND MAROONS PLAY Game Ends in a Squabble, and the Umpire Decides It.

An exciting game of ball occurred on Snipe Hill, when the so-called Maroons, consisting of three star players of the Irish team, namely Dixon, Sullivan and Aikin, and others who play with Holmes' Hustlers, met the Newsboys. The score stood 14 to 15 in favor of the Maroons at the last of ninth inning, with the Newsboys at bat; two men on bases; and no one out. The Maroons then refused to play, because of a decision rendered by the umpire, and he gave the Newsboys the game by a score of 9 to 0. The teams:

TRAIN FELL THROUGH THE WEAK BRIDGE

BAD ACCIDENT NEAR BARABOO YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Engineer Walker, Who Is Well Known Here, Dangerously Injured—Passengers Had to Wait In Janesville Until Midnight For the 6:25 Limited—"Vestibule's" Close Call.

Local passengers who wanted to visit points south, on the Northwestern road, waited for the 6:25 St. Paul passenger train last night until midnight. The delay was the result of bad freight wreck, which took place yesterday afternoon, near Baraboo. A stock train went through a bridge that was being repaired nine miles south of Baraboo. Engineer William Walker, of the stock freight, did not realize his danger until it was too late and in jumping from his cab he was dangerously injured. All passenger trains were delayed and a special car carrying physicians and the wrecking crew was soon upon the spot.

The vestibule train due here at 6:25 pulled into the city this morning, at 8:40 o'clock, the delay being due to what might have been a serious wreck. During the early part of the morning the thick fog hung so low about Baraboo, that the engineer of the vestibule could not see plainly, and in passing a freight train, the cylinder of the big engine was knocked off, as was also a small portion of the baggage car. The dining car was sent from this city to Madison on the paper train, so that the passengers were not deprived of their breakfast, even if the train was late.

DEATH ENDS EARTHLY WOES

Miss Alida E. Glidden.

Miss Alida E. Glidden died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Elmira C. Glidden, No. 20, Milwaukee avenue, at 11 o'clock Saturday evening, after a long and hopeless, and at times, a painful, illness.

Miss Glidden was born in this city, and had always made Janesville her home. For a number of years she was a compositor in The Gazette office, but gave up her position when her health began to fail, and took up the study of stenography. She soon mastered her new calling, and became an expert. For some time she was employed by Nolan & Cunningham, Sutherland & Nolan, and later by Municipal Judge Phelps.

Gradually she grew weaker, however, and it was soon seen that consumption had claimed her. For five years the disease had been relentlessly encroaching upon her strength, and last winter she was forced to give up the work in which she was so much interested. About three months ago she went to Colorado Springs, in hopes that a change of air would be beneficial. The trip was fruitless, however, and about three weeks ago she was brought back to her childhood home. Friends, and the sorrow stricken mother and sister, could see that the end was near during the past few days, and Saturday evening the eyes that had been bright with hope through all the distressing illness, closed upon the scenes of earth, to open in the great beyond.

Miss Glidden was an exceptionally bright and lovable young woman. Her fellow employees in The Gazette knew her as a wholesome sweet dispositioned companion with whom frowns were as scarce, as smiles were plenty. Quick, accurate, and intelligent, she was skilled at her handicraft as well as popular with all who knew her. These qualities were also shown when she left "the case" for the less arduous duties of the stenographer, and the announcement of her death will be sad news to the many people who knew and respected her for her many good traits of character.

Two sisters, Mrs. Ruby Whittier and Miss Georgia Glidden, beside the mother, survive her, and to them tender sympathy will be extended.

The funeral will be held from Christ church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Burns.

Mrs. Thomas Burns died at 7:30 o'clock last night, from the shock following a surgical operation, aged fifty years. Mrs. Burns had been afflicted with a tumor, and the operation was the removal of the growth, but as had been feared, Mrs. Burns was too weak to rally, and her death followed. Her husband, Thomas Burns, died four years ago tomorrow. Eight children survive, they being Mary E. Burns, Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Mrs. George P. Dissett and Katherine Burns, of Chicago; and Matthew, John, Michael, and Nellie Burns, of the town of Harmony. The funeral will be held from the home at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, and from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock.

Funeral of Martin O'Neil.

Funeral services over the remains of Martin O'Neil were held this morning from the Vine street residence and from St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. A large number of friends were at the church and the floral offerings were many and beautiful. Rev. E. M. McGinnity officiated. At the close of the services the remains were interred in Mount Olivet cemetery. The pall bearers were John Cullen, Thomas Rooney, George Cullen, William Sheridan, William Cody and Miles Kehoe. Charles H. Parker.

The following notice is cut from a San Francisco paper:

THE WIFE IS FREED FROM MAN WHO FLED

JUDGE BENNETT GIVES MRS. TAYLOR A DIVORCE.

Two Years Ago Her Husband Left Their Home in the Town of La Prairie, and Has Not Been Seen Since—Child Remains With the Mother.

William H. Taylor, a prosperous farmer in the town of La Prairie, left his home two years ago, since which time he has not been seen nor heard by his wife Theophta H. Taylor.

Consequently Mrs. Taylor applied for a divorce in the circuit court Saturday afternoon and the decree was granted by Judge John R. Bennett, the grounds being desertion. Both parties are well known. They resided in the town of La Prairie, near Shepore, and had lived together until on the morning of November 1, 1894, when Mr. Taylor notified his wife that he had to leave at once for the pines of Northern Michigan. He then departed, and within a short space of time Mrs. Taylor received two letters from him, but during the last two years she has not heard from him. A little two year old child remains in Mrs. Taylor's possession.

How to Get Rid of Freckles, Tan and Sunburn.

With the return to town of the sojourners by the sea, in the country and amid the mountains comes the annual demand for recipes for the removal of tan, freckles and sunburn. The full extent of the ravages committed on the complexion by its unremitting exposure to sun, wind, heat, glare and dust is not appreciated while swimming, rowing, bicycling, tennis and golfing continue to be the order of the day and outing costumes are worn at all times and seasons, but in the conventional environment of the city, when the shirt waist is exchanged for more elaborate toilets, the silks, laces and chiffons of dinner and reception gowns bring into wonderful prominence the traces left by weeks of open air life. Happy are those women who have suffered no greater sea change than an even coat of brown tan, which is the usual fortune of warm brunettes. It lasts longer than either freckles or red sunburn, but it is a great deal more becoming. A liberal application of camphor ice, often repeated, is perhaps the best means of getting rid of it. As for freckles, few persons are of so liberal a taste as to admire them for their own sake, although when they are on a very pretty face they are not actively offensive to the eye. Luckily they disappear of themselves, as a rule, after a week or so of indoor life. It is said that one part of Jamaica rum and two parts of lemon juice greatly accelerate their departure. The mixture is to be applied at night and allowed to dry without being wiped off, and the face is washed clean in the morning. Everybody probably has heard of the buttermilk or sour milk remedy for red sunburn, but few women like to use it because of the odor and the stiff, glazed feeling it gives the skin. The better plan is to wash the face in hot water and apply witch hazel extract, followed by cold cream or camphor ice.

A picture is given of a walking costume of green woolen goods. The tablier of the godet skirt is framed by long, narrow fans of plaited green satin, set in the seams. The bodice has revers and corslet of green satin and opens over a plastron formed of coquilles of plaited white gauze edged with lace. The puffs of the close sleeves of green wool are plaited at the inside seam, and the sleeves have frills of lace at the wrist.

VARIOUS NOTES.

French Method of Washing Fine Laces. The Princess Maud Blouse.

The difficulty of cleaning fine lace without ruining it is one that appeals to all its possessors. A French method is as follows: The lace is rolled very tightly around a cylindrical glass bottle, and over it is sewed a band of linen, closely drawn and covering it completely. The bottle is then immersed in warm soapsuds, where it is allowed to steep for 24 hours. It is then removed and pressed with the hands to take out as much of the soapsuds as possible. Next it is put in fresh soapsuds to soak, and this process is continued until the water squeezed out contains no impurities. It is then allowed to lie for some time in pure water to rinse out the soap, and afterward the rinsing water is pressed out with the hands, when the bottle is dipped in water containing a little gum arabic in solution. Next the bottle is rolled in a clean towel and the moisture again squeezed out with the hands, after which the lace is allowed to dry and is then removed from the glass.

In most cases it is better to send soiled articles of clothing to a regular dry cleaner's establishment, as amateur attempts at removing spots and stains are often disastrous, and the last state of the garment is worse than the first, especially if any sort of liquid cleanser is used by the experimenter.

Now is the season when chollies, lawns and piques are to be bought for a song, as the shops are being cleared to make room for autumn and winter goods. Materials may be purchased for next summer's use which two months ago would have cost twice their present price. The flowered muslins and nainsooks always make charming gowns, and there is no danger that they will be out of date next year.

The sketch shows a blouse called the Princess Maud, in honor of the recent royal bride. It is of flax blue linen. The sleeves have draped puffs at the top, the close portion being shirred lengthwise. The front of the bodice and the outside of the sleeves are adorned with applications of heavy white guipure. The wrists are finished with plaitings of silk gauze, and there is a draped collar of the same material, decorated with butterflies of white guipure. Two butterflies are placed at each side of the bodice in front too. The wide, white satin belt is tied at the side.

ON TWELVE CENTS A DAY.

Four Bachelors Form a Club and Live for a Trifle.

"What is the least sum a fellow can live comfortably on per day?" This was recently the subject of debate by five young bachelors. They are clerks with salaries averaging from $10 to $15 a week, says the New York World. One of them, who has a position in a famous drug house, suggested that a quarter of a dollar would be sufficient. Another maintained that a man would starve on less than half a dollar. Finally the practical man in the party proposed that they club together and make the experiment. "Done," said the others. Then came the question of the selection of a cook. The choice fell on a young colored man named "Billy." This son of the south had served in the navy and knew some "wrinkles" in regard to the culinary art. So the discussion which began as a joke was crystallized into practical experiment. After due consideration it was decided to form themselves into the "Five Jolly Bachelors Down-on-Your-Luck Club." They concluded it would not do to spend more than 12 cents per day each for meals. This would be the munificent sum of 84 cents per week each. They fixed the initiation fee at 25 cents each. This netted $1.25, which they voted to use for an oil stove and the necessary utensils. Then operations began. "We started in September last," said a member of the club, "and after the experiment ceased to be a joke we kept right on until we have practically demonstrated that it is possible for five people to live on 12 cents a day each and have health and happiness. The only medicine we have taken, although right in the line, is a daily dose of jokes and laughter over our 'bill of fare.' We have an 'elegant sufficiency,' though not all the delicacies of the season. Our breakfast and supper consist of coffee and rolls and all that goes with them." The following is the dinner bill of fare for the week: Monday—Coffee and bread, liver and bacon. Tuesday—Chops, French fried potatoes, bread and coffee. Wednesday—Steak and potatoes, coffee and bread. Thursday—Ham and eggs, bread and coffee (no potatoes). Friday—Fish, potatoes, coffee and bread. Saturday—Lamb chops, potatoes, bread and coffee. Sunday—Roast beef, mashed potatoes, coffee and bread. "This includes sugar, milk and butter. What we have is of the best quality and plenty of it. We consider that we fare better than we would in a $6-a-week boarding house."

Scarcity of Blueback Salmon.

Now that the big run of blueback salmon, so confidently looked for this season, has failed to materialize, a report is in circulation to the effect that some misguided person has planted catfish in Wallowa lake, which has for ages been the spawning ground of this small but valuable species of salmon, and the conclusion is that there will be no more bluebacks. It is to be hoped that this is only a campaign lie, but it is to be feared that from some cause there will be no more big runs of steelheads. This will be a serious loss to fishermen, as there is a good market for canned bluebacks. Steelheads are also growing scarce and are likely to be exterminated before long. Protection has been extended to the chinook and artificial propagation is being extensively brought into play to keep up the supply of these fish, but no one has done anything for the steelhead, which is in great demand for shipping in a frozen condition, nor for the little blueback, which is in demand for certain markets. If these fish are to be maintained in the Columbia artificial propagation will have to be resorted to for them and that as soon as possible. What with traps and gillnets by the thousands, seines and wheels wherever they can be used, the facilities are ample for catching the largest school of salmon that comes into the Columbia before they pass the cascades, and should any pass this point the wheels at The Dalles are capable of accounting for every one of them.—Portland Oregonian.

Sins of the Toilet.

Fraulein Payer, a Swiss who has recently obtained her degree as Doctor of Medicine, is lecturing her fellow-countrywoman on the unsanitary enormities of modern female fashion.

Recently, when the Society of Swiss School Mistresses was holding its yearly session in Aarau, Dr. Payer was invited to address them. She took for her subject "The Sins of the Toilet" and delivered a militant oration against the wearing of corsets, against gloves and against long skirts. Her reasoning was so effective that at the end of her lecture no fewer than 100 women came forward and subscribed their names to a pledge to renounce the corset, to wear gloves only upon "ceremonial occasions, and to have their dresses made a foot short of the ground!"—New York Journal.

Out of His Element.

A number of children from Philadelphia's slums were taken to the country the other day by the Country Week association. One of the gentlemen in charge, noticing that a little fellow seemed very unhappy, asked him why he wasn't having a good time. In reply he said that he missed the city, and added: "You oughter live down in our alley. Why, ther patrol wagon sometimes comes five times a day."—New York Tribune.

PHILLIPS BROOKS.

His Feelings at a Memorable Crisis in His History.

The last time that I saw Mr. Brooks to speak with him was at a memorable crisis in his history, writes Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in McClure's. It was close upon the date of his acceptance of the bishopric of Massachusetts; but this fact was not generally known. The movement of his own mind at the time, while his decision to leave Trinity church forever was still seething, was as solemn as prayer. If one had any doubt of this, the sight of the man on the occasion to which I refer would have made it clear to the dustiest perception. We were at lunch, four of us—Mr. Brooks, Dr. Holmes, Mr. Ward and myself, with friends whose hospitality is expert in the art of selecting the difficult and delightful number of guests which is more than the graces but less than the muses. Mr. Brooks was very quiet at first—almost silent; and, it seemed to my slight social experience with him, unprecedently sober. But Dr. Holmes' conversational genius soon struck the sparks from the smoldering fire in the preacher's heart and the two men began to talk. The rest of us held the breath to listen, as our hostess, with her distinguished tact, stirred the flame when she would; and one of the most remarkable conversations which I ever heard followed. Mr. Brooks began to talk about the duties of the upper to the lower classes of society, and of the Christian to the irreligious. He spoke rapidly, then earnestly, then eagerly, hotly, without fear and without reproach, like the Christian Bayard that he was. At the last he pushed on into monologue—a thing I never heard him do before; and no one, not even the king of Boston conversers, cared to interrupt him. To my surprise he spoke of the salvation army in language of deep respect. He honored its work. He prophesied heartily for its future. He spoke contemptuously of the nervousness of people of ease about infection in clothing brought from the sweat-shops and from homes whose horrors but few of us troubled a heart throb to alleviate. With sacred indignation he rebuked the heathen of the west end, who cared neither for their own souls nor for those of other men. He scored worldliness of heart and life in a lofty denunciation to which it was impossible to offer a protesting word. He mentioned by name a certain fashionable men's club on the Back bay. "The salvation army," he cried, "ought to be sent there. Nobody needs them more. They ought to go right through such a place as that and preach new testament religion!"

At this point Dr. Holmes suggested, in a subdued voice: "But, Dr. Brooks, such men as these are not going to listen to the salvation army. It seems to me that you are the man to go into the club and preach Christianity." Dr. Brooks made no reply. The rest of us took the thought up and urged him a little. But he fell into a silence so sad that it was impossible to break it. His gaze wandered from us solemnly. Was he renewing the conflict of soul which must have preceded his determination to leave the pastorate of his loved and loving people? Was he heartsick with his own great ideal of what a Christian teacher might achieve and must forever fail to? Was he thinking of his limits in the light of his aspirations? He talked no more. In a few moments he abruptly and silently left us.

News by Pigeon from the Farallones.

An experimental carrier pigeon service is to be established from Farallone Islands and from outgoing vessels to this city. The Chamber of Commerce at its quarterly meeting yesterday decided to co-operate with Mr. Carlisle, who has offered fifty pairs of homing pigeons from the "Blue and Gold" lofts to begin the experiments with. The resolution by which the chamber committed itself to this venture was offered by Capt. Nelson, who spoke of the successful operation of a carrier service in the Hawaiian Islands. Forester Official Hamman was present and presented the advantages such a service would be to the weather bureau and through it to commerce. The Farallones are peculiarly well situated, he said, for an observation station. As soon as it could be demonstrated that regular communication could be maintained with them, he had no doubt that an observation station would be established there, and then it would be only a question of time when a submarine cable would be laid. Mr. Carlisle in his communication said pigeons could be trained to return from a distance of 150 miles at sea. In this way they could be made to carry important news both from outgoing and incoming vessels.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Japan's Foremost Woman.

The most celebrated woman in Japan today is Mme. Oyama, chief lady-in-waiting to the empress. She instructs the ladies of the court in European etiquette, of which she knows more than many not-European. She is very beautiful, brilliant intellectually and a skilled linguist. She was more carefully educated in this country, and soon after her graduation from college she became engaged to Oyama, the distinguished Japanese field marshal.

No Alternative.

"It was either that or go to work, old boy."

And Feel Them Too.

"What a cramped hand Ethel writes lately?"

"Yes, she must take unusual pains."

A GREAT BOOK FREE.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 60,000 copies had been sold at the regular price $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 50,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, twenty-one (21) one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post-paid. THE CELEBRATED
ORR PANTALON OVERALL
WARRANTED NEVER TO RIP.

Stranger—"What does the above picture represent?"

Mechanic—"These men are testing the strength of the famous ORR PANTALON OVERALLS, manufactured by SWEET, ORR & Co., which is guaranteed by them to be so strongly sewed that three times as many men could not pull them apart."

Stranger—"This is wonderful! What other merits has the garment?"

Mechanic—"Well, I have been wearing this Overall for many years, and it is the only one I have ever seen which always fits perfectly about the hips and gives plenty of seat room, to that no binding is felt by the wearer, no matter what position he may assume. You will notice, also, that these Overalls are double sewed all through, both on the outside and on the inside leg seams, and this is a point to be particularly noticed. Thus, you will see, it is impossible for these Overalls to rip, and the manufacturers can well guarantee them, which they do, Never to Rip."

Stranger—"What further?"

Mechanic—"Observe the buttons. You may be sure that your wife will never be called upon to sew them on again. Also SWEET, ORR & Co. never use any seconds in their goods, but always the first quality, so that a thousand pair or a hundred thousand always run exactly like one pair."

Stranger—"I suppose there are imitation goods in the market?"

Mechanic—"You may be sure of that, so you must always look for the button and see that SWEET, ORR & Co. is stamped upon it."

Stranger—"Are there any other kinds of goods manufactured by this firm?"

Mechanic—"I should say so; why, they make the best cottonade pants, jean pants, wool and corduroy pants, and working shirts ever offered to the working-man. There is no fifteen-dollar pair of pants better finished than the Cottonade and Jean Pants manufactured by this firm and retailed by the trade at $1.50 and $2.00.
